

Becoming Culturally Competent with Diverse YoungCanLit

Presented by Helen Kubiw, CanLit for LittleCanadians

Books used to teach and increase awareness about grief

acceptance

multiculturalism

equity

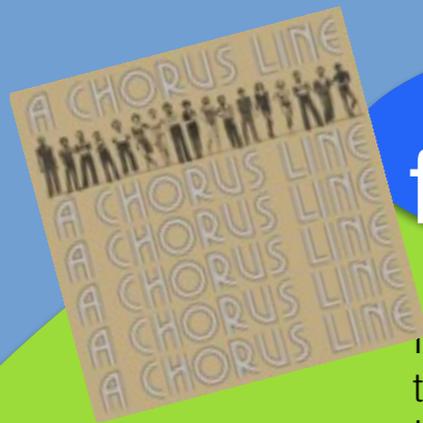

tolerance

fairness

social justice

diversity

Nothing

from the musical "A Chorus Line"

I'm so excited because I'm gonna go to the High School of Performing Arts!
I mean, I was dying to be a serious actress.
Anyway, it's the first day acting classand we're in the auditorium and the teacher, Mr. Karp puts us up on the stage with our legs around everybody, one in back of the other and he says:
"Okay... we're going to do improvisations.
Now, you're on a bobsled and it's snowing out.
And it's cold... Okay... GO!"
Ev'ry day for a week we would try to Feel the motion, feel the motion
Down the hill.
Ev'ry day for a week we would try to Hear the wind rush, hear the wind rush,
Feel the chill.
And I dug right down to the bottom of my soul
To see what I had inside.
Yes, I dug right down to the bottom of my soul
And I tried, I tried.
And everybody's goin'
"Whoooooosh, whoooooosh ...
I feel the snow... I feel the cold...
I feel the air."

And Mr. Karp turns to me and he says, "Okay, Morales. What did you feel?"
And I said..."Nothing, I'm feeling nothing,"
And he says "Nothing Could get a girl transferred."
They all felt something,
But I felt nothing
Except the feeling
That this bullsh*t was absurd!
But I said to myself, "Hey, it's only the first week.
Maybe it's genetic.
They don't have bobsleds in San Juan!"

Cultural competence

begins with practising tolerance and awareness of different cultures

BUT

it's more than just that

Cultural competence

entails

- recognizing the differences among students and families from different cultural groups
- responding to those differences positively
- interacting effectively in a range of cultural environments

(Lindsey, Robins, & Terrell, 2003)

Differences

- culture (= shared traditions, beliefs, customs, history, folklore, and institutions of a group of people)
- language
- race and ethnicity, nationalities, religions
- other aspects of individual identity including
 - gender identities and sexualities
 - capacities and abilities
 - families' home lives

youngCanLit

literature for young readers by Canadian authors and illustrators provides means for recognizing different cultures and other aspects of identity

so that we may understand and honour them

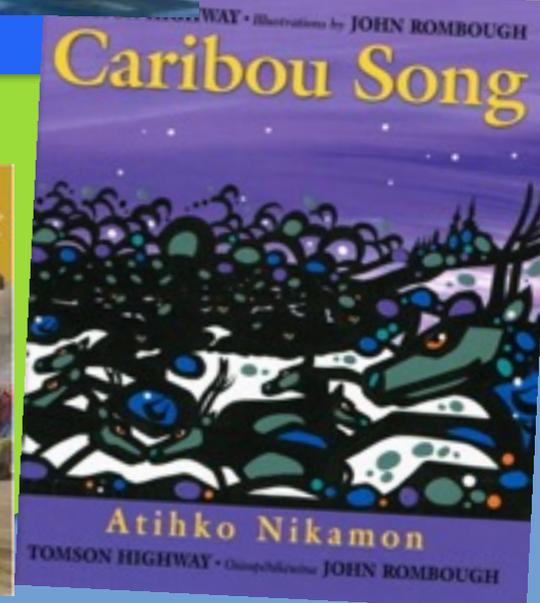

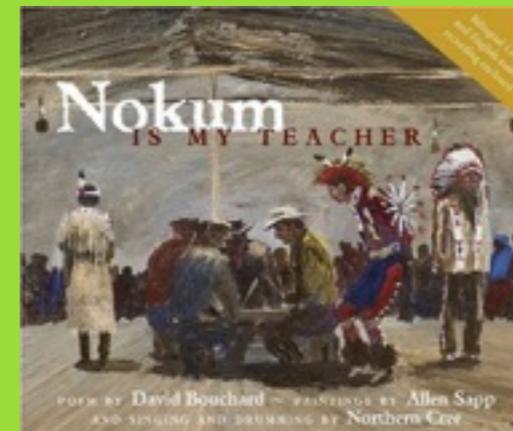

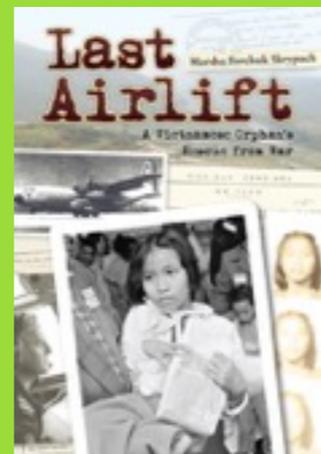

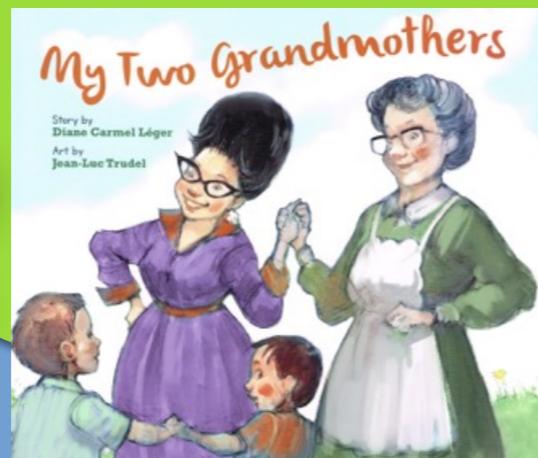

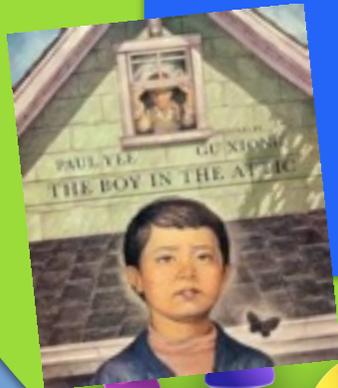

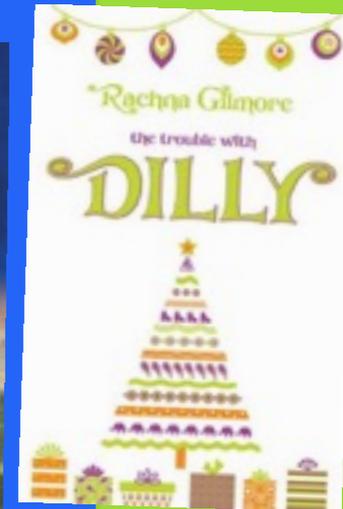

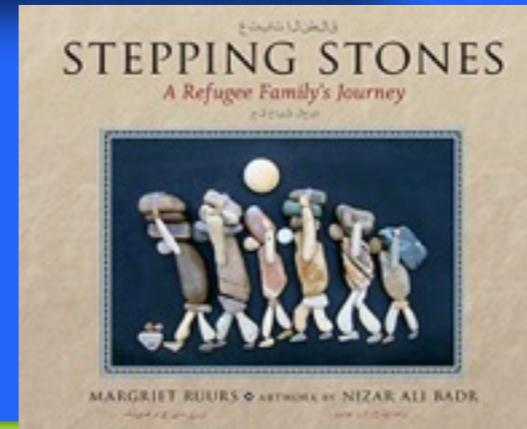

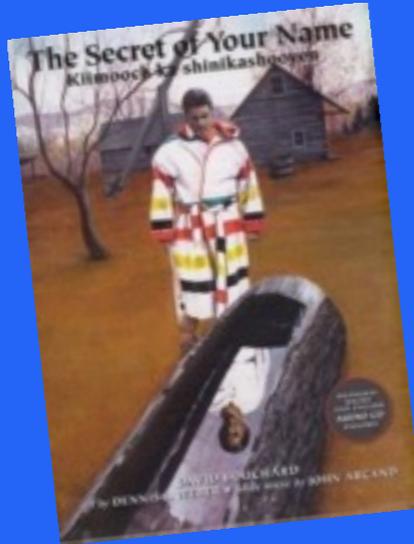

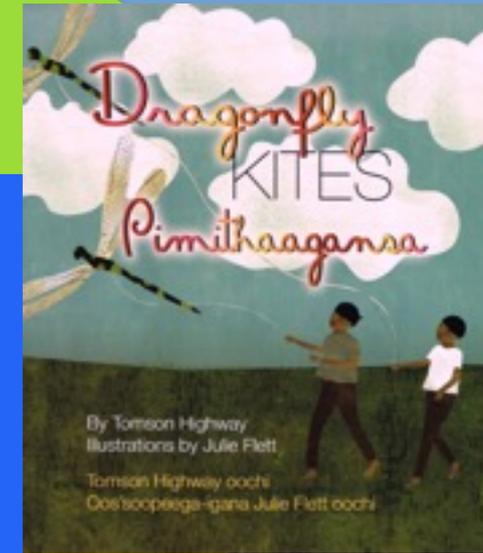

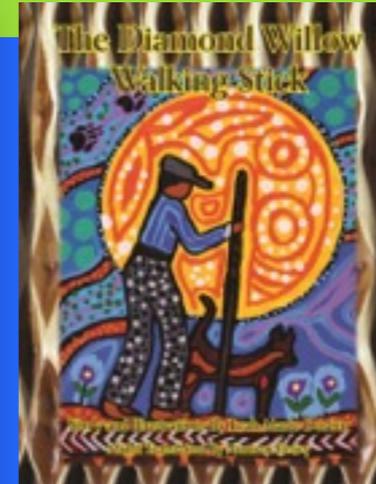

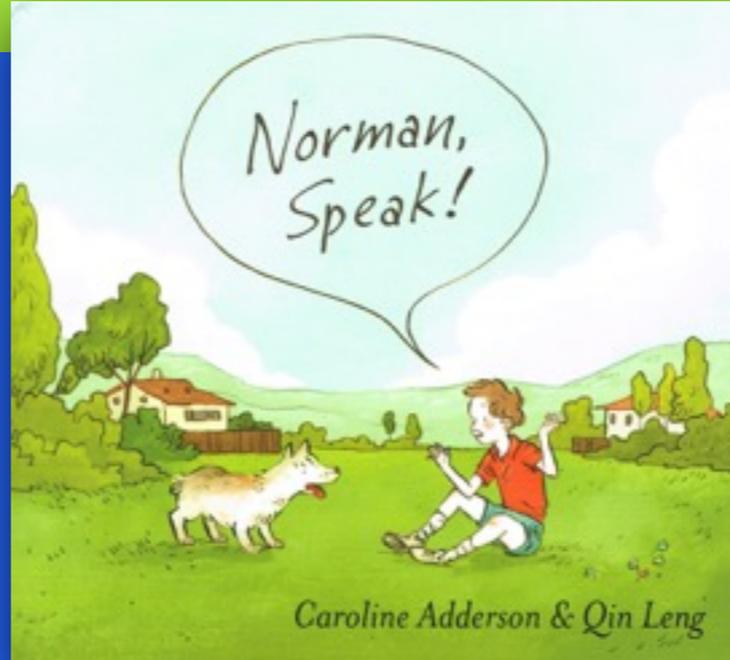

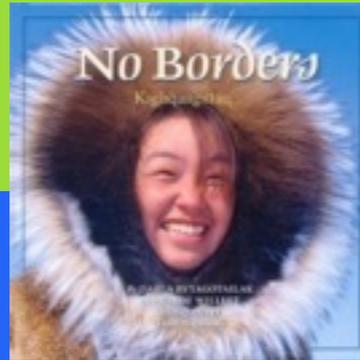

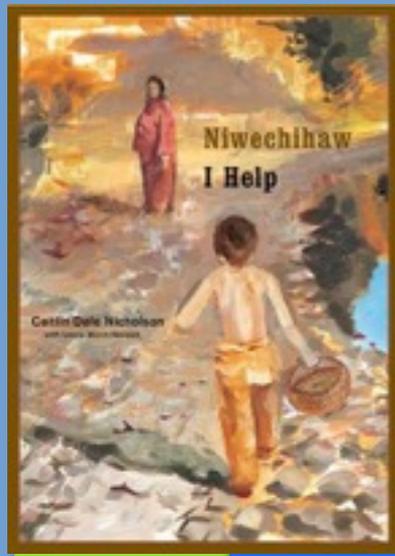

It helps create mirrors and sliding glass doors, rather than windows.

understanding and honouring all cultures understanding and honouring all languages understanding and honouring all races and ethnicities understanding and honouring all gender identities and sexualities valuing different capacities and abilities respecting differences in families' home lives promoting greater understanding of Aboriginal ways of knowing and being

References:

Lindsey, R.B., Robins, K.N. and Terrell, R.D. 2003. Cultural proficiency: A manual for school leaders. Thousand Oaks, CA: Corwin Press.

Livingston, R. 2014. What does it mean to be culturally competent? ACECQA. Retrieved from <https://wehearyou.acecqa.gov.au/2014/07/10/what-does-it-mean-to-be-culturally-competent/> on November 4, 2016.

Trumbull, E. and M. Pacheco. 2005. Leading with Diversity: Cultural Competencies for Teacher Preparation and Professional Development. The Education Alliance Brown University & Pacific Resources for Education and Learning.

Thank you for your attendance today and for supporting youngCanLit

Be sure to check out

CanLit for LittleCanadians

www.canlitforlittlecanadians.blogspot.ca

